

TABLE OF CONTENTS
VOLUME II

Foreword by F. C. Blodi , M. D	XIII
PART ONE: THE MIDDLE AGES	XV
CHAPTER I: ARABIAN OPHTHALMOLOGY	XV
Preface by M. Z. Wafa, M. D	i
Introduction	11
General remarks	(§261) 12
Remarks on Arabian culture and history	(§ 262)13
General remarks on Arabian medicine	(§263) 16
List of printed Arabian textbooks of medicine	17
Translations	21
The barbaric Latin translations	21
Special aspects of Arabian medicine	(§ 264) 26
Al-Razi, Al-Tabari, 'All Ibn Al-'Abbas, Ibn Sina (Avicenna), Al-Isra'ili, Abu Al-Qasim, Ibn Zuhr, Ibn Rushd (Avenzoar)	27
Textbooks of general medicine	29
The history of Arabian ophthalmology (Usaybi'ah) ...	29
Arabian ophthalmology, general remarks; the Greek (and other) sources of the Arabian authors	(§ 265) 33
The technical terms of Arabian ophthalmology	38
The Arabian textbooks of ophthalmology	(§266) 39
The position of the Arabian ophthalmologist	40
Survey of the Arabian literature on ophthalmology ...	42
The oldest Arabic textbooks on ophthalmology	(§ 267) 45
Books of the physician guilds	45
The lists of ophthalmologists	45
The new list of ophthalmologists for King Vhast	46
The first scientific Arabic textbooks of ophthalmology by physicians	46
Hunayn's (Johannitius) Ten books about the eye	46
Hunayn's book in the form of questions and answers	47
Hubaysh's book about the popularization of knowledge on ocular diseases	49
Thabit Ibn Quarrah's book about vision and perceiving	49
The oldest Arabic textbooks of ophthalmology written by ophthalmologists	51

Khalaf Al-Tuluni's book about the final objectives	52
Tabari's book on the therapy of eye diseases . .	52
The most important textbook of ophthalmology from Iraq	53
The memorandum book for ophthalmologists by 'All Ibn Usd (§ 268)	53
The most original Arabian manuscript of ophthalmology from Egypt (§ 269)	59
'Ammar's book of a selection of eye science . . .	59
The Persian authors (§ 270)	67
Zarrin Dast's (Goldhand) book: Light of the eyes	67
The Andalusian authors (§271)	73
Abu Mutarrif's (Abengefit) book on close observations and diseases of the visual sense	73
Anonymous manuscript I, Escorial library . . .	74
Anonymous manuscript II, Escorial library . . .	76
Al-Ghafari's compendium	76
Al-Outi's (Alcoati) book about the eyes	79
Abu Bakr Ibn Zuhr	81
Undetermined authors	81
Memorandum book	82
Ibn A'yan Al-Basri's the examination of ophthalmologists	82
20-25. Khalifah's list
The late and extensive textbooks of ophthalmology by Khalifali and Saldh Al-Din from Syria (§ 272)	83
Khalifah's book about the sufficient knowledge in ophthalmology	83
Salah Al-Din's book about the light of the eyes .	86
Other late and the latest textbooks of ophthalmology .	88
. (§ 273)	88
Al-Oaysi's book on the results	90
Ibn Al-Nafis	90
Outb Al-Din	93
Shams Al-Din's discovery	99
Al-Shadhili's ophthalmologic support
Review The Arabian dogmas of ophthalmology (§274)
The Arabian monographs on ophthalmology, the Arabian ophthalmologists (§275)	102
The chapters on ophthalmology in the Arabian textbooks of general medicine (§276)	110
Al-Razi	110
Ibn Serabiyun	116
Al-Tabari	116

'All Ibn Al-'Abbas	123
Ibn SIna	124
Abu Al-Oasim	125
and 8. Ibn Zuhr and Ibn Rushd	128

Pages 1-129 Arabian Ophthalmology Part One

Free reading only, please CLICK HERE
Buy via PayPal, USD 38.00 please click here

The concepts of Arabian ophthalmology	(§277) 129
The anatomy of the eye as described by Arabian authors	(§ 278)153
Illustrations on the anatomy of the eye	155
Anatomical terminology	160
Constriction of the pupil with light	160
Comparative anatomy and physiology of the visual organ	163
Optics and the concept of vision as described by the Arabian authors	(§ 279) 167
The book by Ibn Al-Haitham	167
The theory on vision	170
The pathology and treatment of ocular diseases	(§ 280) 173
Sabal (pannus)	173
The operation of a pannus	176
Trachoma	178
Cataract	180
The location of the cataract	182
Cataract and hypopyon	187
Glaucoma	188
Occult ocular diseases	189
Ocular diseases caused by higher animals	189
Eye diseases of children	190
The ocular pharmacopeia of the Arabian physicians	(§ 281) 191
Ocidar surgery, general remarks	(§ 282) 195
Asepsis	195
Anesthesia	196
Surgical instruments	199
The cataract operation	(§ 283) 212
The aspiration of a cataract, a radical operation by Arabian surgeons	(§284) 231
The ethical principles of Arabian ophthalmologists	(§285) 241
Final consideration	(§286) 243

Pages 129-244 Arabian Ophthalmology Part Two

Free reading only, please CLICK HERE
Buy via PayPal, USD 38.00 please click here

European Ophthalmology in the Middle Ages

Introduction	(§287) 245
The monastic medical schools	(§288) 245

The school of Salerno	(§289)	246
The school of Montpellier	(§290)	248
Beneventus Grapheus	(§291)	248
Master Zacharias	(§292)	254
Petrus Hispanicus	(§293)	255
An anonymus writer.
Three works about the hygiene of the eye	(§294)	255
Summary; the books of ophthalmology and the ophthalmologists of the late Middle Ages	(§ 295)	256
The ophthalmology of Guy de Chauliac	(§ 296)	259
CHAPTER III: The History of Spectacles		263
Introductory remarks and refractive errors	(§297)	263
The introduction of spectacles	(§298)	266
The inventor of spectacles	(§299)	268
Roger Bacon (1214-1294), Doctor mirabilis	(§300)	272
The further history of spectacles	(§301)	275
Bibliographic annotations	(§ 302)	276
Linguistic remarks(§ 303)		276

Pages 245-280 European Ophthalmology in the Middle Ages

Free reading only, please CLICK HERE
Buy via PayPal, USD 12.00 please click here

PART TWO: THE SIXTEENTH AND SEVENTEENTH CENTURIES		281
Introduction	(§ 304)	281
CHAPTER I: The Anatomy of the Visual Organ	(§ 305)	284
CHAPTER II: Optics and Physiology of the Visual System		288
Introduction	(§ 306)	288
The predecessors (Maurolycus, Plater, Portal)	(§ 307)	288
Johannes Kepler	(§ 308)	293
Kepler's effect and followers	(§ 309)	299
Father Scheiner; the retinal image	(§ 310)	301
The blind sport	(§ 311)	303
The minimal visual angle and measuring visual acuity . .	(§ 312)	304
The horopter	(§313)	305
CHAPTER III: Practical Ophthalmology		308
The practice of ophthalmology	(§314)	308
Scholarly monographs of ophthalmology (Leonhart, Fuchs, Mercuriale, Plempius)	(§ 315)	308
Fabricius ab Aquapedente	(§ 316)	311
Ambroise Pare	(§ 317)	313
Pierre Franco	(§ 318)	315
Jacques Guillemau	(§ 319)	318
Addendum: Richard Banister		321
Georg Bartisch	(§ 320)	323
Wilhelm Fabry of Hilden	(§ 321)	342
Final observations	(§ 322)	345

Pages 281-345 The Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries

Free reading only, please CLICK HERE
Buy via PayPal, USD 24.00 please click here

Buy volume 2, complete searchable PDF, for only USD 75.00
Pay via PayPal USD 75.00. Please click here